

A little more detail about each course

Auditing Skills Certificate

This highly interactive 2 day course will help delegates learn and develop the theory, practical skills and confidence necessary to conduct an effective audit through theory sessions, audit scenarios and role play. Delegates who complete this course will be able to meet the requirements of clause 3.4.2 of the BRC Global Standard for Food Safety Issue 6, which states that:

"Internal audits shall be carried out by appropriately trained competent auditors."

This course is suitable for team members and leaders for whom auditing is a part of their role. This includes those employed in Quality Assurance, HACCP or Hygiene teams, Production, Technical or Health & Safety departments within a food business.

Supplier Auditing Certificate

This 1 day course is aimed at those responsible for, or aiming to be responsible for, the auditing of their organisation's new and existing suppliers as part of their job role.

It is suitable for candidates who have completed the FDQ Auditing Skills Certificate course or have good working knowledge of auditing procedures.

Lead Auditor Certificate

Aimed at those who need the expertise to audit a complete management system the Lead Auditor Certificate fits the bill.

An interactive 4 day course, during which delegates will learn to lead and manage an audit with confidence; from planning an opening meeting through to reporting and follow up. It will help delegates to build the skills and knowledge necessary to audit a complete management system internally and externally, and to carry out audits or pre-audits against the ISO series of standards, BRC standards or customer and supplier audits.

Again, a practical approach to learning is taken, with audit scenarios and role play being used to ensure that this intensive course is both enjoyable and informative.

This course is relevant to team leading, supervisory or management roles for who will be expected to lead an audit team.

All of the above courses are certificated by FDQ and Verner Wheelock Associates.
